Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 21 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mostly dry and fine weather continuing.

Today:
Fine with good sunshine for Scotland, Northern Ireland and northern England. Cloudier than recent days in the south but still dry for most. A few heavy showers in the southwest.

Tonight:
Cloud clearing to leave a dry and clear night with a widespread frost, particularly in central and eastern parts. Breezier in the south.

Thursday:
A fine and sunny day but breezy in the south. Feeling warm in the sunshine. Perhaps cloudier over north Scotland with a few showers over the Northern Isles.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Dry for most with spells of warm sunshine and light winds, but also some overnight frost. Windier across the far southwest and perhaps an isolated light shower in Scotland.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.